
On September 16, 1946, Montgomery College held its first classes at a local high school with a student body of 186 men and women. The College has since grown to a multicampus institution serving nearly 60,000 students annually from 170 countries in more than 100 areas of study.

celebrating endless possibilities

THE 1946 SOCIETY

Founded at the end of the Second World War to meet the educational needs of our country's returning soldiers, Montgomery College has always been in the business of changing lives. And, just as the founders of Montgomery College understood the need to provide an unprecedented educational opportunity to the men and women of America's greatest generation, the members of The 1946 Society, through their exceptional vision, dedication, and unparalleled generosity, have demonstrated their abiding commitment to both our mission and the importance of guaranteeing that these opportunities prevail for the many great generations to come.

Thus, it is with sincere gratitude and admiration that we celebrate our inaugural members of The 1946 Society of Montgomery College.
