

THE PAUL PECK HUMANITIES INSTITUTE AT MONTGOMERY COLLEGE

and the
Montgomery College Arts Institute

PRESENT

A Special Performance by Spoken-Word Artist

Michelle "LOVE THE POET" Nelson

Tuesday,
Nov. 17, 2009
at 12:30 p.m.

FREE and open to the public

The Takoma Park Silver Spring
Performing Arts Center, Theatre Two
7995 Georgia Avenue
Silver Spring, MD

Michelle Nelson has electrified audiences for the past ten years, whether live on stage, on radio, on CD or on DVD. A native of Columbia, Maryland, Nelson discovered the art of spoken word poetry in 1999. Michelle transforms her affinity for writing poetry into powerful and substantive spoken word performances. She has appeared on CNN as a speaker at the Jena 6 rally in Washington, D. C. and she has signed to multi-genre record label Stinkiface Music.

For more information, please visit:

<http://www.lovethepoet.com/html/about.php>

For more information: Please use our website www.mdhc.org To request accommodations for a disability, please call (240) 567-7417 or email esther.schwartz-mckinzie@montgomerycollege.edu by November 3, 2009.

The Maryland Humanities Council will present

Music of the Movement: A Sustaining Voice, The Impact of Music on the Civil Rights Movement

Tuesday, November 17, 2009 at 7:30 p.m.

at the Montgomery College Takoma Park/Silver Spring Performing Arts Center, 7995 Georgia Avenue, Silver Spring, MD 20910.

This free humanities program will feature legendary Civil Rights leader and Georgia Congressman John H. Lewis, renowned sing/composer and cultural historian Dr. Bernice Johnson Reagon, nationally recognized ethnomusicologist Dr. Portia Maultsby, and Dr. Tricia Rose, author of the provocative book, The Hip Hop Wars. The Bowie State University Gospel Choir will perform